The precursor to the current Healthcare Design Expo and Conference, the Pebble Project started in 1987 as a collaborative effort between healthcare designers, researchers, and other stakeholders to investigate the impact of the physical environment on healthcare outcomes. Since then, the Pebble Project has been instrumental in advancing the evidence-based design movement in healthcare.